Imagine

You’re 18 and about to buy your first car. Or you’re buying your first home.

What should I ask? | What will it really cost? | If something goes wrong, who pays?

A 2009 BMW for €6,900

45.8 %

failed their last inspection. A broken gearbox isn’t covered.

Traficom, periodic inspections 2025

A flat from 1974 for €159,000

≈ €51,600

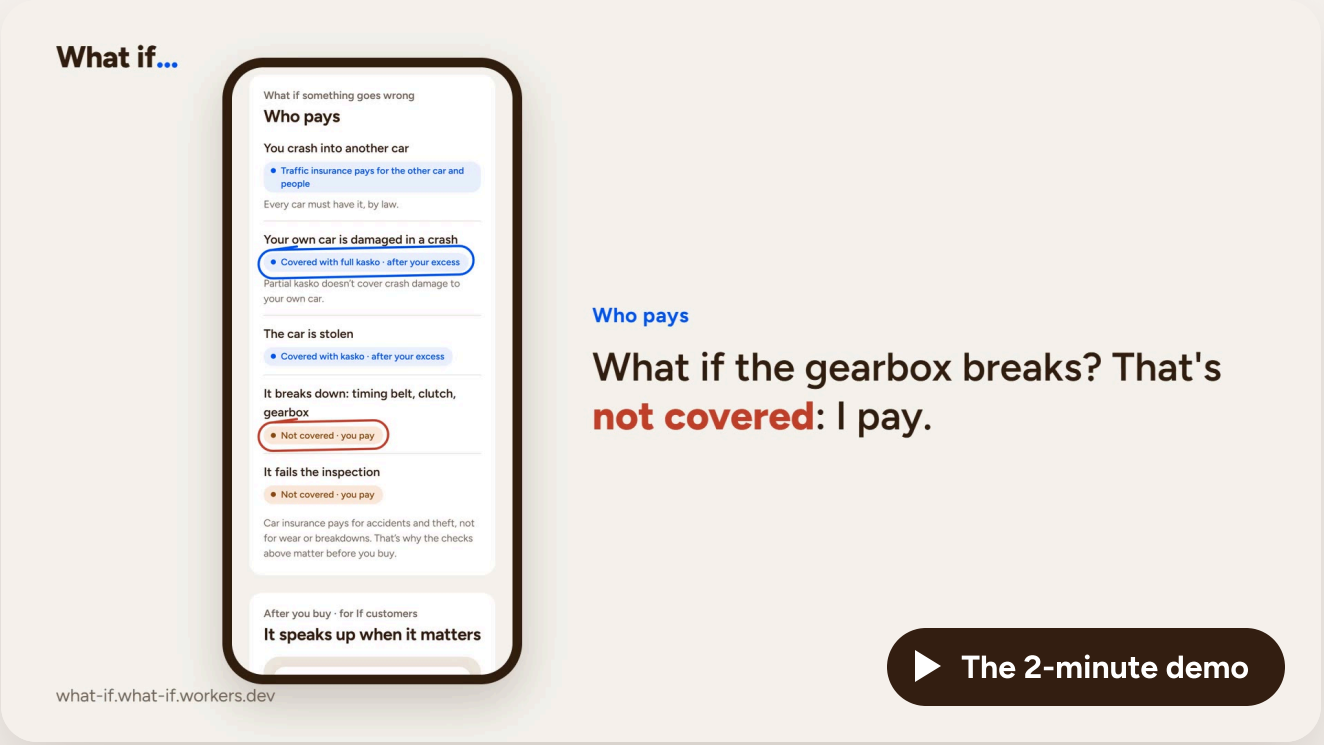

your share if the pipe renovation starts. Not covered either.

Isännöintiliitto 2026

Today you find out after you’ve signed.

Live demo

What if… tells you before you sign

1. Paste the ad, or attach screenshots
2. Three things to ask, and €700 off
3. The real cost: ≈ €12,000, not €6,900
4. Who pays: a crash is covered, a broken gearbox isn't

Business model

If earns from better customers, not from fees

The customer gets

Free, before signing

- What to ask, the real cost, who pays

With If, after signing

- A reminder to check the winter tyres' tread
- A reminder to turn the water off before a week away
- A logbook (huoltokirja)
- A guarantee behind every who-pays label

If gets

- Customers at the moment they need insurance
- Longer stays, and a policy at each life event
- Fewer claims
- The customers who bring the most money: flat buyers first customer value = years × (premiums − claims − costs)

What if... moves all four

Why it works

Built, live, and honest

Live now

what-if.what-if.workers.dev, on any phone, nothing to install

Real data

Traficom, Isännöintiliitto, Finanssiala, Finnish law and If's own terms

Our own AI

Every fact must quote the ad: 161 of 162 right, none invented

Private

Only the ad is sent, screenshots after a check, nothing stored. Details go to If when the person asks for a quote.

Honest about who pays

Every what-if says who pays, even when it isn't insurance

How people find it

Where they already are, when they need it

Already with If

In the If app, at their next car, rental or home

Searching first

“Is a 2009 BMW reliable?” Pages built from the same data lead into a check

Where they sign

Landlords, housing managers, car dealers and estate agents

On the ad itself

Marketplaces, last, paid per policy

Every path ends at an If quote, already filled in

Next

What If needs to launch it

1. Connect the hand-over to If's quote
2. Add If's claims data, so the risks are exact
3. Put the reminders and the logbook in the If app
4. A legal review: the labels, the guarantee, privacy
